I am currently studying the Book of Church Order. I wish to learn about current issues in the GA and how unity and purity is being achieved.

Describe your pattern of private devotions.

My life is centered around being in union with Christ, and this holy communion shapes my identity. I aim to let this new identity in Christ define and guide my actions and decisions. I am committed to disciplining myself in line with the renewed affection of being in union with Christ under the guidance and empowerment of the Holy Spirit. With joy in Christ, I devote myself to submitting to God, grounded in His gracious devotion and covenant with me.

On a daily level, I am learning from the examples in Scripture and the reflections from the forefathers of faith to live in spiritual discipline as a means of grace. I am continually drawn to respond in obedience to this call. Here are the activities and aspects that shape my daily devotions:

- Daily reading of Scripture in the morning
- Daily verse(s) memorization from the devotion
- Time set aside for private prayer in the evening
- Reading great books of faith
- Commitment to obedience
- Regular fasting of food/activities to foster discipline
- Proactive cutting away of sins
